ABOUT US

Wanthiwa - hello in Yindjibarndi

For over 50,000 years, the Yindjibarndi people have nurtured our land and preserved our culture through our language and enduring traditions. In 2000, the Juluwarlu Group Aboriginal Corporation was founded by Yindjibarndi Elders to document, archive, and share our rich history, culture, and stories.

In 2017, we launched our Art Centre, expanding our reach and sharing our heritage with new audiences. This journey inspired us to venture into product development, using original artworks to create a range of products that celebrate Yindjibarndi creativity and culture while generating alternative income streams for our community.

We are a genuinely Aboriginal-owned enterprise. Our artists receive royalties from every sale, and all proceeds from your purchases go directly back to the community. Our fabrication process empowers community through creating jobs, fostering pride, and supporting Indigenous self-determination

Our products are perfect for both Indigenous and non-Indigenous people to buy, wear, and love! By purchasing and wearing our products, you support and promote awareness and understanding of Indigenous cultures

Through our work, we connect with you. We share our knowledge, experiences, and cultural heritage to foster understanding and promote reconciliation.

“Our Elders gave so much of their knowledge and understanding to protect us. They gave their secrets and their stories for all of us to keep and learn from. Their love of Country, Culture and Law and their gift of community grounded in Family was a truly wonderful thing. Our Elders handed over their strength – with endless generosity and patience – to anyone who wanted to listen and to learn.”

Lorraine Coppin, CEO
Juluwarlu Group

PUBLICATIONS

I CAME AROUND IN CIRCLES

I Came Around in Circles is a new artist book celebrating the life and work of Yindjibarndi Elder Wendy Hubert. Though she began painting in 2018 with Juluwarlu, her connection to culture spans millennia. Wendy's work has gained national recognition, featuring in the 2024 Sydney Biennale, the 2023 NATSIAA awards, and Tracks We Share at AGWA (2022). Now held in major collections, her art carries the weight of stories passed down for over 2,000 generations. This book offers an intimate look at her journey, art, and enduring connection to Country.
